New Game Options

New TV Channel

Vintage Glamour adds a brand new “TV Classics” television channel to the game. Sims of all ages can watch and enjoy this channel directly on any of the televisions.

Butler NPC

Vintage Glamour adds the new Butler NPC Service Sim, created specifically for making your Sims lives easier. You can hire the Butler from the phone for a $175 upfront free with a $12/hr maintenance cost. Payment is taken out of the household funds on a weekly basis.

Once hired, a randomly generated Sim dressed in a black Butler outfit will arrive at your household. These Sims are similar to other service NPCs except that they will not leave unless fired, dismissed, quit, or they die. Butlers are spawned with random traits as well, but they have high skills in all of the necessary household chores and entertainment.

- If Sims do not like the specific Butler that arrived, they can fire them and hire a new butler, or edit them with the cas.fulleditmode cheat to change their appearance and traits.
- Butlers have two unique cheats. With testingcheats true on, shift-click the butler to play their idle pose or fidgeting animation.
- Door locks can be set to everyone but the Butler in order to maintain privacy.
- Sims who want a little more from their butler can go on to move them into the household, or even marry them! To move them in, butlers will need to be dismissed first.
- Adding a butler to a household without dismissing them will not allow your Sims to hire another butler.

When left to attend the home, butlers will mosey around and randomly clean, repair, garden, tend to Sims, and perform dust checks. Butlers are also very self sufficient. Butlers only have three motives enabled to decay: Hunger, Energy, and Fun. They do not feel the need to be social, use the restroom, or clean themselves.

- Energy - Upon hiring a butler, a notification will remind you to assign a bed to them. If you don’t assign the butler a bed, they will nap on a sofa or in a tent.

- Hunger - Butlers will make food for themselves and the household. When the NPC is autonomously making food, the household funds will not be charge.

- Fun - When they are alone, they will indulge in fun activities such as getting a drink from the bar, taking bubble baths, play on the computer, and will become embarrassed if they are caught in the act. They even have their own unique book called “How to Serve and Not be Served” written by Alfred.

Sims can interact with the butler with all traditional Interactions, including WooHoo if they are so inclined. When assigning tasks for the butler, Sims will ring a bell. The Butler will then promptly attempt to meet that demand, unless they are previously busy or asleep. (Sims can always wake the Butler and assign a task) The following Butler specific interactions are available via the dedicated pie menu:

- Management - This menu allows Sims to interact with the Butler regarding their work. Sims can choose to use the “Reprimand”, “Praise”, or “Fire” interactions. Be careful not to reprimand a butler that your Sim has a poor relationship with, or they might sabotage items around the house or rage quit. When a butler is fired or quits, a replacement butler is sent.
• Visitors - Sims can direct the butler to interact with specific people that come to their home’s front door. By selecting the “Ignore Front Door”, “Let All Visitors In”, or “Turn Away All Visitors” preferences, Sims can directly control who has access to the home.

• Assign Tasks - These interactions will encourage your butler to provide entertainment or food on demand. Select “Clean a Dirty Object”, “Repaid an Object”, “Attend to a Minor”, “Play Guitar”, “Play Violin”, “Play Piano”, “Perform Comedy Routine”, “Cook a Meal”, “Cook a Family Meal”, or “Cook a Party Meal” to meet your household’s demands.

If a specific object is not available to the butler, tasks will be greyed out. (Not having a Piano for example) If you own The Sims 4 Get Together Expansion, the following tasks are available as well: “Use DJ Booth” and “Burn Up the Dance Floor”.

• Responsibilities - This menu works as a setting to indicate what chores your butler should attend to or not. Selecting any of these toggles will order the butler to start/stop Repairing, Attending for Minors, Cleaning, or Gardening. These are a per/butler setting that will reset once a new one is hired.

Butlers will not ignore a baby in distress despite being told not to care for children.
If Sims no longer require the services of a butler, they can dismiss the service by using the phone interaction. The surefire way of getting a brand new butler is by firing them, as dismissing them may bring back the same butler again if the service is reinstated.

If your butler dies, a new one will also be sent to replace them automatically. Responsibility settings for a butler will reset when a new one is hired.
Globe Bar

The Globe Bar is an interactive object for Sims of all ages, and is found in buy mode for $310 Simoleons. The Globe Bar includes interactions and new drinks for adult Sims to enjoy.

- Play With Makeup (Children)
  - Oops - This is not what makeup looks like when adults wear it.
  - Glamorous - Just a few layers of makeup mostly in the right spots!

Eww the Toilet
$270
Why would anyone create a collection of fragrances that smells like the bathroom? I guess it'll remain one of life's little mysteries.
Environment: 2

Aglow Aromatics
$180
When lit, the aroma from this scented candle intermingles with the fragrance of the fresh flowers to create a nasal bouquet for the ages. All you have to do is relax... relax... relax.

Gears: a rug by The Coalition
$195
A partnership between the senior ranking sewer and weaver within The Coalition bore fruit with the release of this striking rug. Each interlocking cog can be positioned in lockstep to create intricate mechanical patterns sweeping across your floor.

Jellyfish Lamp
$325
This evocative lamp invokes the form of a box jellyfish, each leg dangling from the top-heavy mass. Unlike the bioluminescence found in certain species, this particular piece is lit with a standard 60 watt incandescent bulb.

Faux Fur Rug
$360
Fur so soft you'd swear it was real...

Fiery Facade
$910
The mantel of this fireplace is actually a piece of the decorative facade taken from the city hall building in Roaring Heights. Originally commissioned as a gift to the city's mayor, it disappeared from his estate following his untimely death. It has since passed through the lucrative architectural black market in search for the right buyer... will it be you?

Punchinello Theater Chandelier
$235
The Punchinello family is renowned in theatrics, and this chandelier is representative of the height of their heyday. Only ten of its kind were made, custom designed to illuminate the foyer of the old Punchinello Theater in downtown San Myshuno. Whereas Patrick Punchinello once dreamed of passing the business to his son, the family ultimately went bankrupt when little Peter failed to live up to his legacy. While the assets of their once expansive properties were liquidated, their memory lives on by giving this regal chandelier a place in your own home.

Arithmetically Challenged Divider
$665
What do you get when dividing by zero? Nothing. And that's just about as much privacy as this metallic divider offers. Thankfully what it lacks in secrecy it makes up for in style.
Environment: 3

Newton's Provocative Lamp
$145
The perfectly round base of this lamp is quite perilous, leaving it with a predilection for predicaments. It took seven painstaking hours to stabilize it upright, and another three hours to realign it after realizing the bulb hadn't been screwed in. Do not bump the table that this lamp is set upon. Don't you ever dare breathe... just slowly back up, turn around, and exit the room.

The Short Of It
$495
An elegant dresser with a low profile. You'll have to fold your clothes as there's no room for hangers, but if you can afford this dresser, then surely you can afford a butler to do the folding for you.

The Tall Of It
$225
Feel large and in charge with this stand up dresser. With no need to fold, you'll never have any unwanted creases or wrinkles!

Burst, a clock by The Coalition
$730
A triumvirate of The Coalition's finest horologists collaborated to bring you this exquisite timepiece. The spirals around the edge represent the original measurements of time by Neanderthal Sims, in stark contrast to the standard 12 hour intervals we use to track time in the modern day.
#winning #fabulous #vogue
$30
Rich Sims aspire to have style like you. Poor Sims aspire to have money to have style to be like you. With these windows on your home, you'll represent the pinnacle of the architectural glitterati of wherever you choose to call home.

Art Doorco Double Door
