LeSink Omni
$600

Don't Need No Stinking Drawers Desk
$1,200

You can't remember the last time you got a real letter in the mail and you certainly haven't written one lately. You don't need stamps, you don't have a lot of pesky, clutter-some papers to clip or staple. So why do you need a desk with drawers? You're just going to make a mess of them by cramming them with stuff that you don't even need. It's time to take your office furniture into the next century.

Environment: 4

Flushmaster Hi-Fi
$1,250

Few experiences rate as luxurious and efficient as sitting on the Flushmaster Hi-Fi. The latest advancements in Flushmaster technology include electronically modulated flush sensors, heat-contoured seating, cyclic-ion odor dampeners, a hemisphere toggle switch, and even an interesting fact generator. Intensive R & D continues to equip Flushmaster models with even more opulent features.

Outside the Box End Table

Environment: 2

LaShawn Rain Shower
$2,000

The epitome of bathroom luxury, the LaShawn Rain Shower from L'eau Furnishings has a feature list longer than most electrical gadgets. Worth mentioning are the automatic water flow adjustment based on proximity, temperature setting via atmospheric sampling, and combined water jet and soap dispensing. This shower has it all.

Environment: 3

Pythagoras Corner Bathtub
$2,600

The Greeks knew the value of that elusive diagonal and the value of a great bath. Even if all that goes over your Sim's head, the water level in this tub won't. Don't be fooled by the ancient label, this bathtub is cutting edge and a must have for any high-end bathroom.

With superior torque and space-age rolling mechanics, this swivel chair allows for over 360 degrees of rotation, over and over again, and features EasySit casters that let you take your seat without ever having to lift the chair. $75

The Right On! Cordless Phone is almost as good as having the latest and greatest cellphone. With all kinds of free downloads, flashy graphics and automatic updates, this may be the last phone you ever buy.

Right On! Timepiece

$250

You may not be able to travel at the speed of light, but the display on this modern clock does. Its angular shape serves as a reminder that time is but another dimension, while its simplistic digital display reminds us that all that exists is now. Live in the moment with the Right on! Timepiece.

Console 7

$900

With the power of seven past generation machines, Console 7 is gigabytes of interactive fun. All My Fishes Aquarium

$500

No longer shall fish swim alone. They will bask together under the glow of the fluorescent light, frolic in bubble fields, and wade in algae blooms; it's the next best thing to being in the ocean. Perfect for the serious angler or the casual ichthyologist, there's no classier way to display fine aquatic specimen or other precious loot!

Das Kauker R86

$1,000

They call themselves 'Generation K'; the few who live to hear Das Kauker electric guitar revived in its third incarnation. Before it came the R84 and the hard rocking R85 and now the icon lives on. The progression may seem superficial, the 'limited edition' merely a name change, but it's so much more. (Now with custom-made amplifier.)

Slimline Axsize

$1,600

Fitness equipment manufacturers always make the same bold claims but the good lookin' folks at Slimline only hold one: to have the sleekest, most attractive treadmill on the market. Running on it is optional, making it part of your complete loft layout is essential.

PebbleStone Fire Pit

$800

Made from highly polished pebbles handpicked by children on beach holidays with their families. When the family suitcases threaten to incur overweight charges, the buckets of pebbles get left behind. This opportunistic, award-winning recycled product is now available to those who can afford it. Manufactured in all major beach resort towns.

Lumina Chimes
$300

Lighting is art, magnified. Such is the case with the soft, moody light of the Lumina Chimes. The cylindrical, wind chime-like tubes contain a special phosphorous gas, providing a pleasant glow that is not too bright, and not too dark. Perfect for any room in a modern Sim home and definitely better than candles!

Environment: 2

Metallite Q-Lamp
$450

Owners of a Q-Lamp describe it as a mark of refinement, sophistication, and elegance. Others call it a spindly office lamp. Either way, this modern accessory will bring a soft ambience to any study and its double-articulation arms allow for great flexibility in lighting direction. Made of anodized Metallite, Q-Lamps are completely stain and rust proof. They are not, however, static shock proof.

Environment: 2

Lumina Technica
$200

For the true audiophile, music appreciation doesn't end with the purchase of a stereo system, it ends when the audio environment has been fine-tuned to maximize audio enjoyment through careful combinations of light, color, fabric and even friends. Use Lumina Technica wall lamps to help "hit the right notes" in your home.

Environment: 1

Paimcasso's Scenic Circuits
$900

An amazing view of the world through digital eyes, Scenic Circuits raises more answers than there are questions. Installation manual and strategy guide not included.

Environment: 6

Disk File Prop
$20

The newest trend in high-end real estate sales is to stage the property with lots of messy junk for the super-lived-in look. Sounds unattractive? Realtors say it works. "Buyers pay more if they feel they might catch a glimpse of someone famous," claims Nave Ciccin, celebrity realtor. "You tell a story about the house, told in random objects tossed hither-thither, so it doesn't feel like, you know, a mausoleum."

Environment: 1

Everything in Place Plant Boxes
$300

Your entire home is sleek, modern, and magnificent—why ruin your minimalist motif with out-of-control plants? These no-fuss plant boxes let you add a little bit of life to your sterile surroundings in a carefully controlled setting.

Environment: 1

Framed Tom Audio Replica
$450

For the Sim eager to make a statement like "I really like guitars" or "music is my mellow place", this expensive yet "non-functioning" solid body could be just the thing. It's a pretty good "replica" of Tom Audio's infamous lucky charm instrument that was stolen on the first leg of the DFRB tour.

Environment: 3

FormFunk B-Shell
$950

Humble materials. Color-impregnated Plexiglas. Simple repeated forms. This is the vocabulary of the design collective known simply as "FormFunk." This rhythmic and rigorous book display was featured in this year's "Objects of Desire" exhibition.

Environment: 5

FormFunk G-Shell

Glassic Fence by LoftLabs

$75

Finally, a space divider from Glassic LoftLabs that looks as good on the ground as it does on the penthouse loft patio. It should be able to withstand high winds but that's not covered by the warranty.

Steeled Dura-Arch

$375

This arch is an ideal and necessary accompaniment to the Steeled Dura-Doors.

Glassic Gate by LoftLabs

$200

The LoftLabs Gate features especially well on high-end loft patios where well-heeled socialites make grand entrances (visible from afar through the crystal clear suspended glass.)

Steeled Dura-Doors

$500

If doors could talk, these would say "we mean business." The Dura-Doors make a bold and professional statement about the room they enclose. Although useful for a variety of styles, these doors are tailored towards the ambitious and sophisticated set.

Steeled Dura-Portal

$250

Often mistaken for a door (a higher level build item of greater functional worth), this Steeled Dura-Portal is still just a window despite appearances. If these windows could talk, they would say "Don't walk into me, please."
